

Title: Since DRS is the way .... do I still need to have my account as cash or could I use their margin to possibly hurt them worse since cash account shares still can get lent out ?

I've been doing cash account this hole time . I have thought about other trading strategies with Gme and was wondering if using margin would be a beneficial to help leverage more against brokers and the other side . Since DRS is the only way..... would it have any affect on these firms to have a lot of people in margin accounts instead of cash? I remember months back , the wave of posts were telling people to get off margin and in to cash accounts... was this true or FUD??

Cheers
