Ok, I had a shower thought today - if MSM is smearing the GME movement using their high traffic websites then why don't we publish well written articles to blogs and create more accountable websites that concentrate on truth and de-Fudding.

We have a variety of APES here that are very technically competent with SEO and we already have a few starts such as drsgme and gmedd and the historian wesbite. We can drive traffic to such websites which will in turn increase awareness.

I am sure there is journalist and wordsmith apes among us who can churn out professional looking articles complete with references and based on truth.

Our movement is being marginalized by using terms such as "reddit crowd" and "meme" There is nothing MEME'ish about uncovering financial corruption and enacting systemic change through peaceful protest. We spend money to buy drs hodl

This will also help breaking out of the reddit ecosystem and stop labeling us a reddit crowd and MEME movement.
