Hey, Stonkoholics. I disagree with LeVraiMatador, and I also have little to no evidence, so I request equal visibility (but without the awards - save your money for your favorite idiosyncratic risk).

TL/DR: SHFs have designed a controlled rise of $GME so they can wreck the price after the shareholder meeting. Then corporate media will report, "gAmeStAhP dOwN 50%! sEIL oR DiE!"

Hedgies control the price (for now) with manipulative algo trading, naked shorting, and dark pool abuse. The cost to borrow keeps going up because they are borrowing all the available shares without returning them. Instead of using those borrowed shares as lower sell orders on the lit exchanges (the usual obfuscation to control the price), they are allowing the price to rise while hoarding the borrowed shares for an all-out blitz after earnings. The price will tank to levels seen earlier this week or lower, and corporate media will declare RC a failure and the company kaput.

But, s_h_p, why haven't they done it already? Thank you for asking, voice in my head. They can't tank it off of the price from earlier this week, or people like me would be selling ovaries and kidneys to buy and DRS at sub-$50 prices. Instead, this way they'll get the benefit of the story for their shills, i.e. price drops 50% on bad company that nobody likes, without the risk of further dropping liquidity.

It's a balancing act for them. They are working to keep the rest of the public from seeing what this decentralized group of individual investors sees - the greatest black swan event of all time. At the same time, if they crime the price down too low, then these individual investors will buy and direct register the entire float, at which point the tide rolls out and we see a bunch of naked Kens, Jeffs, and Steves (gross).

Be ready for anything. They lose control and the rocket ignites? Cool, meet you on Uranus. They use after-market trading to crush the price to sub-$60? Cash me outside, cash me outside. RC reveals an NFT marketplace partnership with Amazon, Apple, Bloodbath & Beyond, the NFL, the Susan G Komen Foundation, Toys For Tots, Toys R Us, Olive Garden, Wu-Tang Clan, and Big League Chew? Guess I'll have to decide whether to hold or hodl.
