Does that pretty much imply that brokers are missing at least all of those shares X 4 ? Plus any other reported "Splits" we've seen. Do any of us believe they provided dividends to institutions? Who's checking that?

God this is some real BS and how is anyone expected to get a true price discovery of GME? I love the company, team and the business direction but this hurts all investors. I guess we're supposed to use our smooth brains to figure out the real cap ourselves. I thought this is what DTCC is for?

If I wanted to file a complaint to someone that matters who is it? I've seen many suggestions but just took this route following a post/link from

It takes less than 3 minutes to process a complain. My choices (though there maybe better ones to use) were: Manipulation of a security, Other for complaint type, "Dividends not provided as offered" and then my own typed statement (please do the same):

"On 7/22/22 Gamestop issued a stock split that was approved by stockholders. This split was supposed to send 3 additional share dividends to investors for every 1 share they currently held. Several brokers have reported being told to simply "Split" the shares they currently have without receiving the dividend shares. This is not how the split was issued through their SEC filing and (again) shows the illegal practices that market makers are utilizing to suppress true price discovery of this stock. This is harming my investment among many others and cannot be allowed to continue. This is not a fair market."

Please take a few minutes to submit your own.

Can anyone else provide other people we can contact that should/could care?
