I placed a sell limit 30-day GTC order for 1 share of GME at $1,000,000. The next day it showed a pending transaction on my account with the order, but the price was listed as "N/A". I contacted customer service via chat and they stated that the order should've been cancelled by the system and was not; therefore displaying a price of N/A. (Kind of concerning that I have a sell order out there with no price, but anyways) See screenshot for current price limit.

This indicates that their limits are set at a rate of 1,700x the current share price (for future reference).
