

Title: If/when/so Reddit is compromised, I'd like some eyes on Aether communities?

Author: Clumsy_Chica

Created 2022-01-11 21:47:16 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/s1oko0/ifwhenso_reddit_is_compromised_id_like_some_eyes/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/s1oko0/ifwhenso_reddit_is_compromised_id_like_some_eyes/

I just (like, minutes ago) created b/GME on Aether.

Aether is feeling pretty similar to Reddit in my short use of it, but I'd like some pros and cons going and for that I think I need more people to look into this.

Pros:

The community can elect and impeach mods through voting

Decentralized, peer to peer network. No company like Reddit or Twitter or Google has ownership over the community (no servers to 'mysteriously' go down, no tech overlords supressing posts they don't like.)

Content disappears after 6 months (can be saved by anyone up until that point. but I believe this will be important post MOASS to protect apes)

Posts are not tied to your IP address, and can't (easily) be traced back to you

Cons:

No web browser or mobile device support yet. Need to have Aether installed. (from Aether documentation: "1 There will eventually be an Aether web viewer, so you should be able to link to Aether posts without the recipient needing to install the app. ")

No one is using it, will need to migrate a vast herd of apes.

What else, friends? What am I missing?