

Title: Transferred GME from IRA account

Author: ITouchdownThere2

Created 2022-07-31 17:56:28 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/wcuo3z/transferred_gme_from_ira_account/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/wcuo3z/transferred_gme_from_ira_account/

I transferred shares from an IRA account into a brokerage account (regular) on Fidelity. They moved over and now show an accuired date of 7/28/22 instead of last year. Also a cost basis of $33, instead of what it was last year. Is this correct. I had a long virtual chat with Fidelity and they said it is correct due to being a IRA account and not tracking tax, compared to brokerage that has short and long term tax implications. I just want to DRS everything and didn't want to mess with the DRS method for IRA accounts even though I will pay tax penalties for early distributions. Now I have lost the long term and back to short term. Is there anything I can do if this is actually correct? I will be DRSing these shares next week regardless. Thanks in advance. Buy, Hodl, DRS.