Hello apes! Just wanted to throw out a friendly reminder about the possible catalysts that could spark MOASS for our beloved GME:

1. DRSing the entire float to give GS the right to pursue legal action by forcing buyback of synthetics.
2. Announcement from RC that may cause FOMO buying, thereby triggering margin calls.
3. Significant market decline either due to a contagion from the real estate market in China or some other secondary cause (MBS's, SLAB's going to shit) or just continual increase in interest rates; these would inevitably lead to margin calls.

IMHO, these are the only 3 general scenarios that will trigger MOASS. If there was any other way, this would not be taking as long as it has. Also, I DRSeD 100% of my shares yesterday as a XXX holder, so I'm putting my money where my mouth is; I'm sure the rest of you are too! I'd love to hear some other scenarios, but I can't think of anything else that could force these peoples' hand.
