did you never wonder how there can be so many new brokers and trading apps, selling the same stocks all over the world, and never run out? we keep getting new brokers, but the pie of shares doesn't grow. with infinite liquidity you can have as many scam brokers as you want, and never have to worry about running out of shares.

this is why the DTCC is the achilles heel. the entire global house of cards relies on them. everyone depends on this one place to feed them locates for the same shares. nobody expected the possibility of what apes are about to do.

remember, the system works exactly as intended, it was built as a scam. the DTCC is supposed to be the only place that has real shares, everything in Cede's name. because only then you can run an infinite number of brokers, using the DTCC for a "locate" and sell shares the brokers don't really have, all over the world.

the DTCC was created for this sole purpose, to be a big vault owned and controlled by the big banks and prime brokers.

without it, brokers would have to compete for ownership of the same shares. for every new broker someone launched, they'd all fight for a smaller piece of the pie. finite liquidity, how a real market is supposed to work. but for the criminals this was a problem that needed to be solved. the solution is infinite liquidity from a central vault, the DTCC.
