I have developed aneurism and eye cataract from your posts. What are these "I will name my child Cohen" posts? Y'all crazy or what? We are overthrowing WS and capitalism, we're not in a competition for the first place in a mental institute. I get why you (and I) like people like Ryan and Keith but it's fucking creepy sharing stuff like that, right after the stupid ass videos with the deepfakes of Ryan's face on women. It was funny at the beginning, but it got boring (that's what your wife's boyfriends probably say about you as well).

You guys seriously posted D Lauer's tweets while the guy had no idea what a div split even is. People will stop taking us seriously. I show this sub and the big GME sub when I tell people about the story of the company, if I keep stumbling across these posts, they will never believe anything that I do. And I WANT them to believe so I can help them before you ask "why do I care if anybody believes us".

I convinced 3 friends to not just buy the stock, but to fucking DRS it from Europe. And all that with the then-hot-page of r/ SuperStock and GME. Now I have to sort by TopOAT to show my parents (finally) and some friends.

What I'm trying to say is, if you have questions about new topics like Div Split, go to the fucking Daily Thread and ask, don't spam with posts and don't spam explanations as well, because most of you retards think you know your shit while you actually don't (lmfao). I feel like I'm in a sub where the average age is no more than 14.

I'm all for being retarded. I like the stock though, and I don't talk when I don't know something or I'm not 101% sure about something. All you do is spread misinfo and shitquality-posts
