When next week / month GME will jump 50% or 500% or 5,000% or 50,000% please do not blame Retail for price manipulation. All Retail does is Buy shares in a company we love (called GameStop) and believe in then just HoDL. This is NOT manipulation

Price manipulation is what Hedges are doing for the last few weeks: selling tens of millions of shares which do not have just to drag the price down.

Why are so stupid to believe Retail would sell the shares of a company they love instead of buying ? I don't know, I'm retard. Ask Ken Griffin

Disclaimer: Not financial advice.

Edit: as one retail investor pointed out: the price manipulation by hedges has been happening for years / decades not weeks. Mea culpa.
