Ok so this is Tin foil hat territory but allow me to briefly explain why I think this is going down next Monday. (2/7/2022) or the Monday after that.

Remember that super bowl ad that Reddit ran last year during the super bowl? The super bowl last year was on the 7th. Look it up if you forgot but that ad made us all believe it was regarding the recent fuckery we saw at the end of January, and maybe it was. But what if, a big if, it was meant to come full circle and we just didn't realize it?

February 7th, 2022 is a Monday and with how this week is already shaping up to be, we could see things crumble to the ground very soon.

Here is what I am predicting. I think we will have one of the wildest weeks in the market we have seen in a long time. This leads to the market "collapse" or the Moon or both on Monday. Or, we get one more crazy week holding/buying/DRS GME next week and then Ryan Cohen takes out a Super Bowl ad during the big game on the 13th (while the whole world watches) and ignites the rocket himself. Which of course means that on Valentine's Day (Monday 2/14/2022) we take off for the moon.

Also, isn't RC speaking restrictions lifted by then? I can't remember but this would further validate my complete guess on what is to come.

Buckle Up! It's Moon soon time! ■■
