My fiancé has always been really good with her money in the sense of saving, but that's it...she literally just lets it sit there

So I'm at home with Covid with my fiancé. I was on one of my GME rants over the phone with a coworker and she goes "you really think $152 is a bargain?" as she was sitting at her desk working.... I knew I had her. Took over her computer and purchased xxx with her Fidelity account, about to initiate 1-way ticket to CS.

The coworker, although a good friend, has always thought I was kinda crazy about this whole "GME thing". Then I said to him "but what if I'm right? What have you got to lose? Just buy a couple".... He told me he's putting in market order before 4p

Anyways, done with my rant. Made me happy so wanted to share a bit of positivity for the community for the holidays.

TL;DR: fiancé now Apetite, GME go boom, I eat ■
