So stoked that majority of my GME shares are finally @home safe and sound. Few rogue ones here and there but I'll leave them on their own just to fuck with the brokers.

Still it's so strange, I know I should be releaved and happy but my feelings are sad and down. We're in a good spot but so many other people are gonna get hurt bad. Just checked a certain spiraling crypto group and it's pretty heavy browsing. Makes you think differently on several things.

Only thing I can say is after this is over my life will be dedicated on helping people and making anybody's life easier. I don't need billions to be happy (but I'll take em just not keep them ) I just wanna make a decent living and spend time with my kiddo and make amends for what kind of a partner and dad I've been. I've been so in my own world and pushed my close ones away. Just wanna be me again
