

Title: We are now down 80% from 28JAN2021's premarket peak. In my humble opinion, anyone not buying $GME shares here needs to take a close look at themselves in the mirror. You WILL regret not buying here for what's coming next week and the few weeks after. This is now proven as the "dip before the rip."

Too, the $108.00 GameStop share price is now around the economic limit where demand exceeds any oversupply, even due to the most egregious levels of naked shorting.

'They' have simply dug themselves a deeper hole; they have to switch positions here from net short to net long. That is likely their plan (similar to volkswagen)

This whole week will likely be known as the best buy opportunity of a lifetime (of any stock, historically)

Now and forever, this is not finra-certified financial advice
