I know options have always been controversial here but it's clear they have a significant influence on the price. And we also know that market makers must lock up shares for calls.

So since we're all long on GME and not selling, why not just copy Ryan Cohen's GME calls for 2023? These long-term far-out calls seem to be the most efficient/effective way to go genuinely long on a stock and influence the price of GME. Even DFV used GME calls!
