JP Morgan just went long and will obviously benefit from staging a gamma squeeze. I think I finally get it. When they sell it will tank the price and lead people to think it's over. As much as I want this to happen right now this doesn't feel like RC's plan. No matter the outcome remember that GME controls the trigger. If you want to make money then so be it and Godspeed, just don't think for a second it's over until the fat lady sings.
