

Title: r/place is the kind of community we are - or we became?

Author: FrenchFriedBurrito

Created 2022-04-04 17:35:37 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/tw7wur/rplace_is_the_kind_of_community_we_are_or_we/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/tw7wur/rplace\_is\_the\_kind\_of\_community\_we\_are\_or\_we/

I will not get this message too long, but many of you probably are starting to realize how we are taking care of ourselves and others in r/place. Some may say it is a waste of time, but the publicity that Gamestop is gaining by just, maybe, 100k members of its fan-base participating? How many companies would like to see this kind of behavior? A daily effort of protecting a logo of a company, their chairman with goofy eyes and mostly, a person who inspired to perform better DD and believe in your ideas, DFV. Few projects, few ideas have this sense of community in the realm of companies... so we are one.

And we do not only do that for us: We are taking care of OSU (rhythm game) associating with countries (flags), creators and other players (Minecraft), helping when the voids appears or a lame streamer tries to whatever... we stay strong and together with others. We don't fall in the dark side when StarWars got voided: we help, reconstruct, maintain, preserve. We have a green line that unites nearly a half of the first sector and second sectors, and goes further and further, smashing into the moon.

I believe not only Gamestop as a company is transforming, but we as people and shareholders are becoming in something better. Let's enjoy our the remaining time in r/place.