I'm so confused. With GME getting close to covering the float. Y is their getting so much advertising of BBBY? I mean on all platforms that's all I c the past week. Seems to me by advertising another stock is just gonna push people towards that instead of where it should. Over 150 million volume going elsewhere. Being smoothe I would think that's just going to take that much longer as well as that's a ton more shares the Hedgefks will need to cover. Just goes to show are people here for the money or the resolve? Because all I'm focused on is giving these corrupt what they deserve. I like money but not as much as I want to bring down a corrupt system that's been cheating for decades.
