Just take a look at how much it's being talked about. How much vitriol is still in the MSM about it. How many people are still "concerned" that we are going to lose all OUR money. How many cries of "is over" are out there.

If it was truly over, they would stop talking about it.

it's like advertising to say they covered.

Nobody will care about YOUR wallet unless it affects THEIRS somehow. It's simple.

Gamestop will be over when nobody is talking(screaming) about it. When the silence comes back over it. I don't see that happening anytime soon.
