

Title: Don't Speak: Spam Filters and the Absence of News

Author: funsnacks

Created 2021-09-12 03:15:29 UTC

Permalink: /r/Autisticats/comments/pml1my/dont_speak_spam_filters_and_the_absence_of_news/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/Autisticats/comments/pml1my/dont\_speak\_spam\_filters\_and\_the\_absence\_of\_news/

Is_self: True

TLDR:

Today I will be discussing how some keywords flagged as spam by a subreddit has resulted in the absence of news and why this is news in and of itself. While the subreddit in question shall remain unnamed in observation of "Brigading" rules, it's worth noting the "Spam" keywords disallowed on the subreddit have been allowed by all GME-specific ones to date. It is my opinion that the filtration of these keywords further corroborates certain explanations for what has been going on with GameStop and the financial markets.

Background:

Part of my working theory is that Retail Investors have actually had a lot less to do with "Meme Stocks" and the ascent of GameStop than many news outlets would lead you to believe. My understanding is that Institutional Investors dealing in Leveraged Loans made some serious bets that the pandemic would result in the bankruptcy of many companies, including GameStop, throughout 2021 and 2022.

I've also hypothesized that Hedge Funds have successfully skirted SEC disclosure rules by alleging their investments were being targeted by Retail Investors on Reddit. Such vilification appears to have provided those Hedge Funds a form of protection against other Institutional Investors capable of identifying unique financial opportunities and benefiting from them.

Hypothesis:

One common association made by popular news outlets is between Retail Investors and a certain subreddit where "amateur" Retail Investors allegedly "band together" and rally behind certain stocks. However, I'm not certain this is true! Based on keywords that I've observed trigger the subreddit's spam filter it seems much more likely those involved with the forum represent interests of Institutional Investors, not Retail Investors as is frequently cited.

Last week I read through the rules of this subreddit multiple times, simplified one of my DDs (here)) in an effort to adequately follow all explicitly-stated rules, and attempted to post to the subreddit in question. No luck.

On my first try:

<https://i.imgur.com/LxMoTJw.jpg>

Links I then removed:

- <https://www.isda.org/book/bullet-markit-lcdx-untranchcd-transactions-standard-terms-supplement/>

—

My second try:

<https://i.imgur.com/7eVg0Ka.jpg>

Links I then removed:

- <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/documents/2021/01/europcar-credit-suisse-facility-agreement.pdf/>

- <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/documents/2021/01/emea-dc-issue-2020120201-europca-r-mobility-group-s-a-final-list-11-january-2021.pdf/>
- <https://www.cdsdeterminationscommittees.org/lcds-management/>

—

Or my third try:

<https://i.imgur.com/6WhOZhK.jpg>

Links I then removed:

- <https://creditfixings.com/CreditEventAuctions/results.jsp?ticker=EUROPMO>

—

Still, even after the removal of each keyword flagged as spam and my fourth attempt re-posting, the DD was immediately removed without explanation. This struck me as highly unusual given the fact my post was about the transition from LIBOR to SOFR and it's relation to record Reverse Repos backed by links to legitimate, credible finance-important organizations.

Weird, No Doubt, that I'm unable to speak of an ongoing event that should be of interest to the subreddit in question.

—

Just a Retail Investor, not a financial advisor.