Like the title says. It's okay to feel conflicted about our love of the stock and the dreaded and cringe NFT stuff out there.

I hate NFT's and the whole culture surrounding it. I do hold very strong negative opinions about it, and it's not because "You don't know enough about it" or that I'm "ignorant", I'm up to speed on the DD surrounding it, and have drawn my own conclusions.

That being said, if Ryan Cohen and GameStop have some creative vision that has ACTUAL use for the style of product that NFT's involve, that doesn't involve all of us doing "Make-believe" and pretend NFT's have inherent value, then I'm game.

If it helps moon, then LFG.

If it isn't invasive and cringey, then LFG.

If RC has some actual unique and useful vision for what the NFT Marketplace COULD be... Then LFG!

I expect to be downvoted or accused of spreading FUD, it's not my intention, I just want to let other Apes out there who feel "lffy" about the news know they are not alone.

So this post is for those Apes.

If you feel that NFT's are the future then good for you, or if you couldn't care less then also good for you! I believe in RC and his vision for GME and the future, so let's see what comes of this! I'm cautiously optimistic!

My interest is f*cking up the Hedgies/Wall Street. No cell, no sell!

Hope every Ape has a great weekend!
