I have three call options, one with a 510 strike price. Just before the halt, I got notifications from my broker that all three options were in the money. Before the halt was lifted, I was notified that all three were no longer in the money.

How much more theft are we going to put up with? How much more blatant can you get? The American market is just as bad, if not worse, than the LME. These idiots seem to have forgotten why there was a French revolution. At some point, people will decide enough is enough.
