

Title: BASKET CASE: The crack became a canyon - in September 2021, ■ was trading 4:1 but has recently gapped to 11:1. Is the basket falling apart?

DISCLAIMER: I am not trying to spread FUD. I am looking for potential discussion or an adult to chime in and maybe dd me

THEORY: There has been a theory of the basket stocks, and more specifically ■ and GME running similar over the last year and a half. It has been discussed that POTENTIALLY SHF's are in ■ so that when they run (with GME), it protects and covers them from ol Marge from calling

Well, since September 2021, the probable best trade price was September 13th when ■ was at 51.69 and GME at 203.40 (slightly better than 4:1). It has slowly been gapping since then and in the last few days it's been as high as an 11:1 trade.

Does this mean their protection of the■(and potentially other "meme" stocks) running with GME and helping cover from Marge is dwindling? (Potentially from DRS?)

I'm smooth brained. I might be a complete moron on this.
