GameStop is changing their entire business model (for the most part). They no longer have a need for a lot of the employees in the brick and mortar aspect and most likely over hired so now they're just shedding dead weight (no offense to the layoffs). Part of me speculates that our beautiful man found some more BCG shit bags and tossed them out too. This move makes me ecstatic to see our beloved GameStop going hard and making moves left and right . Things are getting spicy !!!
