The reason I ask is for these 2 reasons.

1) I have I never known of a company to move up an earnings date, unless they knew earnings were going to exceed expectations

2) We know the CEO had a good relationship with his father. "He has said this on numerous occasions" Why would he change an earnings to his birthday knowing they would be dismal or miss.

I don't own a single share of GME, being I don't understand the play. HOWEVER I may have to buy a 1000 shares if these rumors are infact true.
