So, there has been a lot of connections being established between Jeff Bezos, Ken Griffin and the short squeeze gang.

Intro

It all started with this tweet from Susanne Trimbath.

<https://preview.redd.it/dzpsra8868l71.png?width=828&format;=png&auto;=webp&s;=1ab2e679f37902c3bcb7fc622181234f599e2dcc>

When folks were trying to figure out the request, I wrote:

Jeez. It's about the delisted stocks that were shorted and are now rebounding.

The buy button is turned off and she's giving a hint that delisted companies are not allowed to be bought by retail.

I thought this was obvious but apparently no one made the connection.

The plan was never to cover and that includes Sears and Blockbuster which never went bankrupt but were nearly there. Now those companies are seeing huge gains on stock that was delisted from the exchange.

Years of naked shorting coming back to bite them in the ass.

Many have already posted about Sears and Blockbuster shooting up as well as RC tweets.

Pets.com

What hasn't been given much attention is Pets.com. As per the article: <https://money.yahoo.com/chewy-founder-dont-compare-us-to-petscom-154110825.html>

"When Pets.com went public in February 2000, it was doing $6 million in business. It raised $82.5 million and was backed by Jeff Bezos' Amazon (AMZN), but it went out of business just nine months later because of deep recurring losses. "

The article continues to say that Chewy is overvalued by a non other than a hedge fund manager David Einhorn of Greenlight Capital. David Einhorn has the typical rap sheet for insider trading and other types of fishy business but the most interesting part is his minority ownership in the NY Mets. Who also owns the

NY Mets, Steve Cohen of Point72. [https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/David_Einhorn_\(hedge_fund_manager\))]
[https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/David_Einhorn_\(hedge_fund_manager\)))]

Amazon, Steve Cohen, and the relationships to Pets.com. We may have missed a few things when the tweet came out.

For other wrinkled brains, there may be more here with Greenlight Capital and we might see some surprising things such as his opinions on GameStop. <https://www.reuters.com/business/autos-transportation/investor-einhorn-says-palihapitiya-musk-poured-jet-fuel-gamestop-2021-04-15/>

Einhorn and Elon Musk also have some history. <https://www.foxbusiness.com/markets/hedge-fund-manager-david-einhorn-half-heartedly-backs-musk-in-gamestop-frenzy>

Bezos/Musk

As for Amazon, it appears they seem to be using SHF's to take out the competition. There are a ton of recent posts and kudos to those apes for bringing it to light.

But I'm going to focus on Musk and Bezos. In my opinion, these two have a rivalry that extends further than business competition. I think it's personal. If Bezos was actually getting his competition taken out through shorts, he may have done the same thing to Musk.

Tesla was hit with an attempted short in early Jan of 2021. He did not go down and made the shorters pay. <https://www.marketwatch.com/story/big-short-investor-says-his-big-tesla-short-is-getting-bigger-and-bigger-11610313191> It cost them 38 billion dollars.

Since then, Musk has been attacking Bezos and friends while pushing GameStop.

I believe Elon knows the game and is trying to turn the tables on Bezos and the SHF's. This is why he pushed GameStop and is specifically out to beat Bezos.

Anyways, it's late and I kept my promise to put this out for those who asked.

Night!
