I'm throwing down a bet!

The current Powerball jackpot is $500 milly. With a $355.9 million lump sum payout and 26.9% set aside for taxes (Fed+State), that should be roughly $260 milly to a very happy ape. (Your taxes may vary but my state is one of the lowest on lotto taxes).

That is enough fun tickets to buy over 1 million $GME shares! And yes, I am that autistic.

However, my bet will be in phases. First phase, I will buy the 300ish thousand shares Fidelity keeps saying they have available to borrow and send them straight to Computershare for the DRS ∞ poo. Easy to diamond that in the forever lagoon because I will still have over $200 million left.

The second phase (which will come after I have tripled quadrupled checked my math on taxes and ran it by a professional) will repeat phase one with whatever synthetic shares are supposedly still available to borrow. However, this time it would be a direct buy on Computershare. Why may you ask? Because I anticipate resistance with a second transfer of this size and because this way the broker has no way of knowing this number of shares that are going to DRS. So, they can't know how to hedge it. This is still for the ∞ poo. I'm anticipating that will make around 500,000 shares for the bot to eat.

Phase three, I could possibly still have around 150 million left. I will buy merch at GameStop. Probably more than I can even think of right now lol. I will drop at least 10% of what is left into GameStop. I personally don't need to buy that much stuff so I will just do giveaways until I have met the goal. I will donate GameStop gift cards for the prize pool in the local charity raffles too. That way I might get some shoppers that would normally look to buy elsewhere to shop out GameStop. There are still loads of people that only think of amazon or BestBuy for electronics.

Phase four, this is the phase that I really screw over the SHFs (or at least try hard at it). We know that the market makers (like shitadel) try to pin the price of stocks to a certain range that is profitable to them. This is typically near or at max pain. We also know that they will use darkpools to ensure they win at this. But I still have a ton of cash lol. So, I will sell a bunch of cash secured puts (CSPs). This is a bullish thing to do for those that don't know. The market makers will see the number of shares I am prepared to buy should the put finish ITM. (This part might sound like a conspiracy, but I also believe they are able to know the likelihood of me being able to buy and hodl those shares if exercised.) In my case, I will be able to buy 1000s of shares at different strikes. I will try to make a rising floor with this. The theory is that the SHFs will try to avoid short attacking the price to these levels because of the massive dip buy waiting to happen. Every week the puts finish OTM I will have earned the premium. This will probably be between $100 to $300 per put sold. I am estimating I could sell 5,000 CSPs each week until I get assigned. Every week I don't get assigned; I will earn over half a million in premium. Whatever I earn in premium is what I will keep for myself. If I get assigned on week one, I will have reduced the lotto win down to $500k lol. But I would also have over 1 million shares with at least half locked away in the DRS forever lagoon and have dropped a ton of cash support for the next earnings.

Phase five. If I owned this much of any other stonk, I would sell covered calls and keep riding the premium. However, this is no ordinary stonk. This last phase is just hodling till MOASS. They will be transferred to DRS, but I will sell some of these in MOASS. As fun as the fantasy of winning the lotto is, I don't want to imagine how I would handle this many shares during MOASS.

If for some reason I won, this and it was a split pot (happens if there are multiple winning jackpot tickets) than every phase will be weighted to whatever the winnings are. I will keep this bet rolling as long as the jackpot is over $500 million.

Phases 1 though 3 are locked. I'm open to suggestions on how to best screw over the SHFs in phase 4.
