GME gets fucked retail pays the price. If you haven't noticed by now retail investors have beat big Wall Street investors at their own rigged game. They've lost. The game now is too see how long they don't have to pay the piper. They cheated over and over and over again and were allowed to do so. The SEC doesn't give a fuck about anything but their paychecks. Always remember that. I'm all for having your voice heard but I bet those letters and comments are laughed at by those bastards. The next big run up will be when GME is pulled off the current bullshit stock exchange. Until then it's all fraudulent garbage. Good luck.

Edit 1: I see the borrow fee is decreasing. IMO, more proof that they were beat yesterday and no choice but to cheat. Back to the constant attack of shorting.
