I registered my xx GME shares from my brokerage to CS and the CS representative has confirmed that they have been transferred and received. I'm obviously delighted, but unfortunately, being based in the UK, I did not call them in time to request my Computershare account documentation be sent from their UK offices. They have already sent the forms from their US offices.

Now I'm in the realm of snail mail.

The CS rep said I can expect to receive the documents in about 2-3 weeks but that they are experiencing some delays, so it may take longer. CS sent the documents on 1 April. From others' experience, how long can I expect the snail mail to take and arrive in the UK?

Regardless of the potentially long purgatory I'm in, from what the rep was saying, my account is essentially set up and they have locked-in my shares, I just need to verify my account when I receive CS's mail and then complete the W8-Form online when I activate my CS account.

Buzzing that I've actually managed to DRS my shares and now just need to play the waiting game. Almost in zen mode. Almost.
