Well, last night was fun, right? If you use e-Trade, you saw your account 4X while Fidelity didn't do anything up to midnight when I went to bed... while others just sort of made shit up.

Which leads me to my question... is there another stock split (not GameStop) coming up any time next week that we could monitor to see if it has similar "glitches"? I don't recall this with AMZN or GOOG, but I also don't own either, so it's not something I looked at the transitions.

Also, does it seem odd that all of these splits are happening now in a falling economy? To me, it sure does...
