Im a nobody, just some retarded individual investor.

As with probably most of you I am subbed to all 3 GME main subs. As of today I am going to stop following all of them.

I joined this crazy, insane journey at the beggining of april. Its been a lot of real genuine laughs over the months but honestly im am done.

I personally feel like I am seeing less and less posts that either make me laugh or educate me. And more posts about just drama. Posts about people arguing about drs or options. The biggest one for me though is people shaming others for not DRSing. Like really...what happened to I am an individual investor? My shares my choice, my money my choice...

Now to be fair I feel like most of these comments or posts are shills trying to create arguments between us...at least I hope so.

I have learned a great amount this year about a topic that I never expected myself to get into. I would be up on a friday night reading DD instead of out drinking and partying. I thank you all for everything you have taught me...it has been very eye opening. I feel like I know everything that is needed to finish this fight, all that is left is time.

I will hodl and my 20 DRSED shares are in the infinity pool!

Hegies r fucked!

Buy, Hodl, DRS...were comming for you Hegies.
