

Title: Possible capital raising opportunity for GME during/after MOASS?

Author: impromptu_dissection

Created 2021-09-22 01:48:13 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/psxaem/possible_capital_raising_opportunity_for_gme/

Url:

https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/psxaem/possible\_capital\_raising\_opportunity\_for\_gme/

Ok take a trip down the rabbit hole with me for a minute.

There has been a lot of discussion about if we were to lock up all issued shares of GME in Computershare that MM and others still short the stock will need those real shares in Computershare eventually.

There will be technically 2 sources for MM and other naked shorts to get the real shares they need so bad:

- 1) Selling of the shares on CS
- 2) GME issuing new shares into the market

If GME were to do this then RC would only have to issue a couple at the ludicrous prices to raise a boatload of capital for the company securing their financials for the foreseeable future.

Do you think this is possible?

Would they be smart in doing this?

I am curious to hear all of your thoughts!