Millions of canadian apes don't have access to the internet as we speak. Hold down the fort while we get our shit back up again. The whole economy literally stopped in Canada because of one service provider outage. This should be a lesson for all the apes as these outages can happen more frequently in the future as we're approaching end game for GME. Always have a back up plan ready. Also keep on eye on the ticker for any fuckery. This outage seems kind of fishy. Maybe it's a test for a bigger outage in the US?
