Gents/Ladies, it's been a while since I've been here. I'd like to think I'm an OG GME investor. Been holding for more than a year now. I used to be quite active here but then I became obsessed with crypto and have pretty much focused all my time on that.

Anyway, I have a couple questions was hoping you can help answer.

- 1 - I called my trading platform about DRSing but never actually followed through with it. Is it still worth it to DRS?

- 2 - tell me about the GameStop wallet. Are there any incentives for using it? I have a bag loops. Can I do anything with Loopring in it? I'm not into nfts, more interested in the fungible token side of the wallet. I hold many nfts but I've never bought one.

- 3 - I've asked this question multiple times on here but haven't been able to get an answer from anyone yet. How can hedge funds hold short position + synthetic short position with such high unrealized losses for over a year? At what point do they have to purchase them back? In theory, could they just hold the short position forever as a F U to the GME community?

- 4 - is there a margin call threshold?

- 5 - if there's anything big I should know about pls lemme know! It's very hard staying on top of so much news. I think I'm too diversified.
