Since the halt of 29 March, the S&P; has lost 2.5%. Apple has lost over 5%. It's almost as though huge sums of money are being pulled out of the 5,000 biggest public companies because of a huge event.

It could be the FED are taking damage-limitation steps to save a market crash. Or it could be that firms can see a rocket igniting on the horizon which takes some idiot apes to the moon.

Correlation doesn't make causation. But the price of GME, for now, has settled. What are the arguments for and against the halts causing a shift in sentiment?
