Let say during this inevitable run that will happen. I have my GME 100% in computer share. And I want to sell a single lone share to have some pocket change. How long would this process take? and why is it telling me I need a registered Australian address?

Just curious because every other DRS post is a fresh ~1 year old account. And it's seeming sus.

My one worry is it's a trap to keep average apes from quickly participating in the market. (I.e. preventing them from selling during the you know what)... I mean sure you have the shares 100% but you don't have the ability to quickly move them around when needed. I hope I'm wrong but I've been asking about this and can't get a straight answer.
