To begin, I'm a smooth brain in this topic compared to most of you but what if we try to get attention to the benefits of DRS'ing to all stockholders so that people with other stocks (holding these stocks long) also will feel incentivized to DRS their shares so total collateral these hedgehogs use will decrease.

I haven't seen any push or explaining to other stocks or stockholders/forums. Of course we don't want any brigading to other subs but I think it will benefit all shareholders worldwide to get to know the benefits of DRSing. In the same time (if I understand this whole thing right) it will also benefit us as Ken's and his buddies collateral will decrease?? Meaning ■■■■ sooner.

In this thread I hope people can help give a summary of reasons DRSing has benefits over holding in a broker so we can spread this information across the interwebs. Please give me some pointers because I'm not wrinkled enough myself.

The benefits on top of my mind are:

- they can not borrow against your shares for shorting, decreasing possible downward pressure on the stock from shorting (Is this correct?)
- shares are held in your own name so even if anything happens to the brokers you're problem free in this matter
- ???

I don't have the internet pointz for other GME communities so please spread this message there if you think this would be a good idea.
