Not a FUD post, I'm hodlng an XX amount of drs'd shares of GME myself and I'm not selling. I want to see how well researched other GME hodlers are. If you can satisfactorily answer these questions, you'll be far less likely to paper hand when things get crazy in a few months. Please link the DD for your answers. Thanks!

- 1) How do you know the BIG rally hasn't already happened? What evidence do you have that the short-sellers haven't covered yet?
- 2) What makes you sure that short sellers can't hold out for another 2-3 years while retail interest in GME fades?
- 3) When the big rally happens, what price range will GME jump to? What is the plan in case brokers turn off buying again?
- 4) If all goes according to plan, the hedge funds are forced to cover, the squeez gets squoze, and RC and the apes win: what is your exit strategy?
- 5) If you don't have an exit strategy, and are going long, what do you anticipate for the future of GME post rally?

If you've taken the time to answer these questions, thank you! You are a true ape 🐼(<https://emojipedia.org/monkey/>) and deserve these big tendies coming your way 🚀(<https://emojiterra.com/rocket/>) 🚀(<https://emojiterra.com/rocket/>)
