

Title: Change my mind: The trading halt in GME was legitimate. The lack of a trading halt in popcor was legitimate.

Just read the goddamn rules before you post a stupid comment that gets on top of the gme and ss sub and makes us look like morons.

GME went down 5% in 5 minutes and didn't move out of the 5% +/- bracket within 15 seconds so it got halted.

The sticky floor stock did move 10% within 5 min at open. But if you look at 1min candle clearly it fell back under +10% within 1min. If it was less than 15 seconds then there should be no trading halt triggered.

Edit:

Forgot to mention, trading halt occurs after moving 5% and staying there for over 15 seconds for GME, but its 10% for stocks that arent in spy500 or russel 1000
