

Title: If brokers can legally close retail positions (based on required Terms of Service agreements), could this prevent a MOASS?

Author: ethervillage

Created 2022-03-19 20:59:25 UTC

Permalink: /r/DDintoGME/comments/ti4q49/if_brokers_can_legally_close_retail_positions/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/DDintoGME/comments/ti4q49/if_brokers_can_legally_close_retail_positions/

(Tried posting this over on SS but apparently it's too FUD to ask genuine questions about a potential scenario like this.)

If all brokers close retail investor's GME positions, would this prevent MOASS? I am 99.76% DRSeD at this point and not worried about losing my excellent investment in a company I believe in. However, I've been wondering what the ramifications would be if brokers did this to retail, leaving only retail shareholders who DRSeD. Either way, for me it's no cell, no sell but I am curious what the impact could be.