Apparently all the brokers have handled this like a normal split IE just 4x your shares in the system and split the price. Computershare aswell.

My understanding is that this splividend is the price cut in 4 and you get 3 more shares for every 1 you have 4:1.

Thats how its supposed to be right? Has there been some type of misunderstanding here? Did we misinterpret it or is the DTCC just completely fucking us here deliberately?

So many questions. What do we do now? Its not like gamestop made it hard to understand what they wanted
