Fun fact, there are about 46.8 million millionaires right now. If GME went to a high enough price that anyone on this sub, even with one share, could walk away a millionaire, it would only increase the amount of millionaires in the world by 0.5%.

Like, seriously, I thought it would massively increase the amount of millionaires in the world, but that comment brought it back down to earth. We're getting a fuck ton of wealth, but it's still not that much in the large scheme of things
