So it hit me. I have an exit strategy, I've thought about what to do after printers went brrrr and all that. What I didn't prep for, and I'm guessing I'm not the only one is, wtf to do after this wild fucking ride we're on now.

I'm here for money, most are. I don't buy into the "movement" narrative, if the "movement" achieves its goals that's cool and hopefully we can build something sustainable long term. Still tho, sitting here, finding clues and diving into holes. Planning and preparing moves, won't happen again.

I'm feeling the end game coming closer. Can't say specifics but I'm trusting myself here.

So, if you haven't figured out an exit strat yet you gotta haul ass and put that in place. For the rest of y'all... Figure out what to do after this.
