The first 2 halts up today on GME was legit. After the 3rd halt up at $108 , the red candle say it opened at $108 , never went up more than it opened although it was just halted on the way up 5 minutes earlier. During that 3rd halt, Market makers, short HF as well as retail short daytraders somehow came up with almost 150K shares to dump all the way down to $102 for a halt down. Killing the momentum. Later in the afternoon about 80K shares were covered at exactly $87. Convince me that I'm wrong ... your turn ..
