First off, this is my first post ever to reddit, and I'm doing it via my phone, and for that i beg your forgiveness. In case it needs saying, I have zero background in finance and would be the last person to take as an advisor. Posting here because of karma requirements on Superstonk, though ironically I've watch the saga unfold since last year before the corruption of "UUSB". Preamble aside, there has been a lot of excellent DD that my cueball-looking brain has taken in from our beloved analysts, and the game keeps getting lit up bit by bit with each new release. One piece that came up and went away in a hurry had to do with ETFs and ETPs. I know TRS, naked shorting and DOOMPS have played a huge part in the manipulation of our beloved stock, but I want to highlight the fact ETFs and ETPs have a great deal of potential in manipulating our beloved stock. See you, Space Cowboy.
