I drs'd a few GameStop shares a while ago now and finally got around to getting the rest in. I'm from New Zealand so it's a bit more of a process. I'm pleased to see that my 175$ test transfer went through ok.

Just had to open a wise account then feed those details in to computershare.

Infact wise is giving me better currency conversion rates than the NZ banks lol.

With the test purchase out of the way I've queued up a big order. Super stoked I can do this from NZ.

The obvious downside is not being able to lock in a price and having to potentially sell shares to free up capital.

Fingers crossed I picked the right time and gme continues its downtrend.

Anyway. If you've got any questions please ask. It's be great to get more international apes drsing. Pic of purchase
