SEC if your watching, Take notes. Even the long arms of the national park services do their job. Where you at? Sometimes you can't have people call in or blow whistles. It's not rocket science. If you continue having issues refer to the National park service for tips.

Bob Murray, acting United States Attorney, had this to say about the incident:

"We understand that people are eager to get out this summer and enjoy national parks; however, this type of behavior is unacceptable.

Thanks to the quick actions taken by park rangers and the park vendor's security officers, nobody was seriously harmed.

Stay sober, because unruly and intoxicated behavior will only earn you a spot with the jailbirds rather than enjoying the beauty and adventure of Yellowstone."

Even Bob Murray gets it.
