

Title: A Tale of two Splits (Three if you look at Tesla board)

Author: OverTheHedgies

Created 2022-08-26 14:01:38 UTC

Permalink: /r/GME/comments/wya0eb/a_tale_of_two_splits_three_if_you_look_at_tesla/

Url: https://www.reddit.com/r/GME/comments/wya0eb/a_tale_of_two_splits_three_if_you_look_at_tesla/

I think most people understand that GameStop issued a dividend split, and many brokerage firms were instructed by DTCC to treat it like a forward split.

If you follow AM C and that split, the dividend was in a new SHARE being created (APE). As you might imagine, it was "not smooth"... some people still have not received their dividend, and many people that have received it doubt what they were given.

In the news, it was reported as 2:1 split, but for the life of me, I do not know why, because the APE shares are not AM C share and should be $0.01 give or take. So, I started probing:
(AM C/APE)

Fidelity split my shares 64/36

Etrade 60/40

Friend on Schwab 57/43

A friend that had DRS'ed shares via Computershare 50/50 * (a small price difference AM C $0.40 higher)

And then, TSLA issues a 3:1 dividend split like GME? I don't think EM is stupid... why would he copy RC's "failed squizz play" if it wasn't going to work?

I think this is the end game. May you live in interesting times...