I'm from continental Europe, and I could not DRS in time to be included in Earnings 5M DRS'd shares, simply because each physical letter took almost 2 months to reach me.

Fact about Europe, here we often are able to make regular savings, and thanks to socialized healthcare and education we don't have that many external factors capable of wiping out the savings - so I can park my money nicely in GME.

I'm certain there are A LOT of people like me, storing the majority of savings in GME and then just not being able to DRS in time. With some time and patience, locking the float seems imminent. I will DRS 90% of my GME shares, and will wait for at least 3 days when GME goes to the moon - as I believe this investment strategy will produce the best outcome.

This post is not a financial advice - it's a donut.
